last october, my family and i visited the albuquerque international balloon fiesta. it was very exciting seeing the balloons fly through the new mexico sky every day. the fiesta began on a saturday morning and lasted for two weeks. the autumn air was crisp each morning as balloons shaped like darth vader, clocks, and sleeping beauty sailed by.

my dad worked at the fiesta helping matt park campers in the lot. people would come from as far as canada to see these great balloons. the best part about the whole trip was that my whole family got a ride in a hot air balloon. tim was our pilot and he flew us over albuquerque 600 feet in the air. we could see places like mcdonalds and hobby lobby!

we plan to head back to new mexico next october. maybe we will see you there!
